

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE HAS QUIET WEEK-END GOV. LANDON RESUMES TOUR

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)
JACKSON HOLE Wyoming, Aug. 24.—In this quiet country place one is struck by the tumultuous aspect of city newspapers. A recent average-size New York daily contains twenty-four important news stories concerned with Reds, bolsheviks, Communists, and activities of the Leftists. Reds riot on the Bremen. Mr. Earl Browder, Communist candidate for the presidency, says Governor Landon and Colonel Knox must be defeated, as they are the chief enemies of his people. Mr. Theodore Dreiser, the good gray pessimist, sends word from his luxurious Westchester home that he may desert the Communist ticket this fall to vote for Mr. Roosevelt if he decides that the president needs his vote.

A news column tells how a WPA literary project boss, formerly an editor of a Communist publication, has hired a man away from the staff of another Communist journal to make him publicity director for a certain WPA undertaking. There is dissatisfaction among unemployed writers who are so unfortunate as to believe in the American system rather than the Russian.

New York and Washington, looking across at Spain, are in turmoil about whether it can, can't, or should happen here. But out here in Wyoming in the typical prairie states, only the sunsets are red.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Cars bearing signs for Governor Landon passed through town Saturday from a great number of different states. Iowa, Michigan, Oklahoma, Ohio, New Jersey, New York, and various other states were represented.

New Castle motorists who were in the huge crowd at West Middlesex on Saturday afternoon, report that it was a matter of an hour or two for some of the parked autos to get out of the parking ground following the meeting.

Veteran newspapermen who are on the special train of Governor Landon which was here over the week end, state that exceptionally large crowds have been gathered at every point that the train has made a brief stop along the route from Kansas to New Castle.

Decorations in the city, put up for the visit of Governor Landon, over the week end, were removed early today. The town was well decorated and the impression left with the host of notable visitors was fine.

New Castle performed nobly in its part of the reception and entertainment of the Republican party presidential nominee over the week end. Every activity on the schedule was put through without a hitch.

Crowds gathered around The Castle every time the presidential nominee was due to enter or leave the building, Saturday, Sunday and this morning.

Saturday night was one of the hottest of the entire summer, when the mercury failed to drop below (Continued On Page Two)

Huge Crowd At Testimonial Dinner At Cathedral Saturday Night

Presidential Candidate Spends Sunday In Quiet Informal Manner

New Castle is returning to something near a normal state of affairs today after a week end of excitement engendered by the visit of Governor Alfred M. Landon, of Kansas, Republican candidate for president. Governor Landon and his party left at 9:55 today over the Pennsylvania railroad and tonight he speaks in Chautauqua, N. Y.

The big end of New Castle's excitement came Saturday afternoon when Governor Landon and his party arrived from West Middlesex. At the Cathedral hotel the sidewalks and streets were jammed with hundreds trying to get a look at him. They waited until he came out of the hotel to go to the Cathedral where again the street was crowded with people. Governor Landon paused for a moment on the steps of the Cathedral where he waved a greeting to those assembled out in front.

Huge Crowd At Dinner. Inside the dining facilities of the Cathedral were taxed. Approximately 2100 sat down at the dinner which was a testimonial to Landon. The task of serving such a throng was handled by the women of the (Continued On Page Two)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—Final report on the proposed Pittsburgh-Lake Erie canal was made to Washington today by Col. W. E. R. Covell, head of the United States army engineers in this district. It was learned exclusively by International News Service.

Submitted to the office of the chief of U. S. army engineers in Washington, D. C., the report term the canal as a "major project" of the local bureau. It marks the next final link in the lengthy one leading to ultimate approval of the project.

With all the information available, excepting a few additional findings now being made at his command, the chief engineer at the capitol will either approve or reject the proposal as he sees fit. It (Continued On Page Nine)

Miss Mitchell In Hospital Here

Is Brought To New Castle Sunday Afternoon To Undergo Further Treatment

Miss Maud Mitchell, of 201 Elm street, who was seriously injured on July 27, when her nephew, Rev. Clarence Bratsche, and his wife, were killed as their automobile skidded into a truck, parked along the highway, at Norwalk, O., was brought to New Castle in an ambulance Sunday afternoon, and placed in the Jameson Memorial hospital for further treatment.

Miss Mitchell is recovering nicely, but it will still be some time until she can be released from treatment, it is said. She sustained severe chest injuries, almost every rib having been broken.

Leaders See Victory For Governor Landon

In the minds of Republican leaders there seems to be a quiet confidence that Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas will be the next president of the United States. During the visit of Governor Landon here over the week-end a number of the leaders expressed themselves as to why they thought he would win.

Said former Governor Gifford Pinchot: "This man Landon rings true. He says what he means. I am for him because he is the type of man that you and I can have confidence in."

Said Samuel Lewis, former secretary of highways for Pennsylvania:

Governor Landon Attends Church Service Sunday At West Middlesex

In the little red brick church in West Middlesex where fifty years ago his grandfather, Rev. William H. Mossman preached the Gospel, Governor Alfred M. Landon went to church on Sunday morning. Not as the candidate of the Republican party for the presidency, not as a private citizen worshipping his God and at the same time paying tribute to one of his forebears.

He could not escape the public acclaim that follows him on this tour however. Long before the church opened a crowd of hundreds packed the church yard and the sidewalks outside the little church. They were there at 9 o'clock and shortly after 10 o'clock the doors were opened. Only sufficient people to fill the pews were admitted and in a few minutes every inch of seating space that was not reserved was taken up.

With "Aunt Em"
With Governor Landon were his "Aunt Em" Leininger and his uncle William Mossman. At 10:55 they walked up the narrow stairs that lead to the auditorium of the church and a few minutes later the service began. An organ prelude by Mrs. Maynard Ebb opened the service with the invocation by Dr. E. B. Harsha, pastor of the United Presbyterian church. An anthem by the choir directed by Mrs. Wade Walker followed.

In the congregational singing Governor Landon joined with the guests that accompanies a Methodist singing the hymns of his own hymnal. The sermon delivered by Rev. Henry Shilling was taken from the first chapter of Hebrews, and the subject was "The Christ of the Ages."

The sermon was one that Rev. Shilling might have been preaching to a regular congregation. Certainly he added little that had any bearing on the presence of a notable man. And to the credit of Rev. Shilling let it be said that the entire service was one of dignity and reverence, a service that no time took on any color or suspicion of a politically directed meeting.

"Who Was Chosen"

Madrid Airports Bombed Again By Rebel Airplanes

Twenty One Planes In Attack On Two Airports At Madrid

(International News Service)
LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 24.—Throwing Madrid into a panic, and destroying "many" airplanes, a squadron of 21 rebel airplanes from Seville today flew over the capital for a second time and bombed the city's two airports.

Carefully avoiding any damage to the city itself, the rebel pilots zoomed first over Getafe airdrome yesterday, dropping a large number of small bombs.

Returning today, the squadron plummeted more than 200 bombs on the hangars at Getafe and Cuatro Vientos airports.

Pilots who afterwards flew low over Madrid told of hundreds fleeing for shelter, leaving the streets deserted within a few minutes. These were the first air raids of the civil war on Madrid.

Russian Peasants Shot To Death By Soviet Soldiers

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Aug. 24.—Twenty-three Russian peasants were shot down by Soviet soldiers in a food riot at Poltava, near Idessa, the official German news agency said today. The troops opened fire, the dispatch said, when the "hunger-crazed" populace tried to storm the military food depot.

Several skirmishes have broken out between peasants and troops according to the agency, because of a poor harvest in the Ukraine, where the red army is allegedly confiscating the entire crop.

Spurned Love Turns Into Tragedy For Young Couple, Families Prominent

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24.—Winston B. Gardiner, tall, curly-haired navy man who confessed strangling his 19-year-old sweetheart to death because her love grew cold, wept in his jail cell today and prayed for a speedy execution.

Haggard from a sleepless night, the 23-year-old radio operator of the U. S. S. Maryland, sobbed to police the details of the killing of pretty Muriel Lucille West, socialite daughter of a local manufacturer.

Loved Victim Dearly
"Oh, God, I loved her so much," he wept. "It's an awful thing to do to her."

"She told me she wasn't going to see me any more. It was an awful blow to me because I had looked forward so much to seeing her upon my arrival from Honolulu with the fleet Saturday. There was no warning that there had been any change in her feeling toward me until she said that."

"Then I pleaded with her at least to have dinner with me before saying goodbye. But she refused and insisted on leaving. I barred her way at the door. 'You're not going to leave here,' I said. She tried to slip past me. Then I lost my head and before I knew what was happening she lay on the floor, pale and lifeless."

Strangled Girl
According to police, Gardiner strangled the girl by wrapping a large towel around her neck. The body was found in the Hollywood apartment of his sister, Mrs. Virginia Deering, after Gardiner himself called police.

Will Execute 16 Ex-Leaders Of Bolsheviks

Supreme Soviet Military Tribunal Pronounces Death Decrees

ALL ACCUSED OF COUNTER-LOTS

One Of Condemned Is Leo Kameney, Who Ruled With Stalin

(International News Service)
MOSCOW, Aug. 24.—Less than three days of life remained today to bring to a close the amazing careers of Gregory Zinoviev, Leo Kameney and 14 others whose years of rebellion and intrigue lifted them to high places in the Bolshevik regime, only to see them sentenced to death for plotting to destroy that regime.

Ordered by the supreme Soviet military tribunal at 3 o'clock this morning to be shot within 72 hours, the 16 "old Bolsheviks" can appeal now only to the presidium of the central executive committee of the Communist party.

In view of the extreme gravity of their offense, involving half a dozen schemes to assassinate Joseph Stalin, and the fact that the Soviet official press had keyed the nation to expect execution, there is believed to be extremely little likelihood their sentence may be commuted.

Only two or three—those who sought clemency during the trial, or denied participation in the terrorist plot—are even expected to appeal.

Wants To Die.
Kameney, who for a time ruled Russia with Stalin and Zinoviev, does not even want to live. "I already have ten years of prison ahead of me," he told the court in a moving self-accusation, "and I would rather be dead than watch life from behind bars." He and Zinoviev were brought from prison, where they were sentenced in connection with the slaying of Sergei Kirov, member of the politburo, to face trial.

Zinoviev, alleged author of the famous letter which, revealing plans to "bolshevize" the British army, threw Britain into a turmoil 12 years ago, also was resigned to his fate, and Ivan Smirnov, the only one of the 14 to fight for his life, said:

"I accept your sentence, since it is the verdict of my party."
Sentenced To Die.
V. V. Ulrich, chairman of the court, brought in the judgment after five hours of deliberation. In contrast to the bizarre drama that characterized a trial in which the defendants competed with each other in self-accusations, the verdict was crisply announced:

"The defendants are sentenced to the highest form of social defense—shooting!"

New Castle Fair Opens Tuesday

Indications Are For Notable Exhibition—Large List Of Entries

RACES CARDED FOR TWO DAYS

Earlier than ever and featuring a lot more things than most previous exhibitions, the grand and glorious New Castle fair opens for a three-day run on Tuesday.

Through Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 25, 26 and 27, crowds will visit the grounds out along the Harlansburg road to view the displays and enjoy the fun that a county fair can offer. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Culminating the months of planning and effort its sponsors have given to it, the show gates swung open tomorrow and today officials pronounced everything in readiness for a final inspection tour.

Route Back To Kansas After Buffalo Speech

Leaving here today Governor Alf M. Landon, Republican party nominee for the presidency will speak tonight at Chautauqua, N. Y., and on Tuesday night at Buffalo, N. Y. Then he will start his return trip to the trip. Towns along the route designated by circles are those at which the special train will make brief stops for the personal appearance of the presidential candidate.

No Mishaps In Record Traffic

Huge Crowds In District Over Week End Are Well Handled

NO DISORDER OF ANY KIND HERE

New Castle went through the Landon visit with attendant crowds without an auto accident in which anyone was injured due to the efficient direction of traffic by the state highway patrol, city police department, Troop F members, city firemen and constables.

According to reports, no automobile in the motorcade which left this city was in a crash and no highway accidents in which persons were hurt were reported during the past 48 hours.

Pluses in the city for the direction of traffic were executed nicely and on all the city and state highways there were plenty of patrolmen and at spots, state police.

Another feature here was that only one report of a pocket being picked was received by city police. In this instance, the pickpocket secured a pocketbook containing $1 from a patron of a local drug store. The city was most orderly over the week-end.

No difference where one looked Saturday or Sunday night in the city or along the highway an officer could be seen. All were decidedly courteous to everybody and car drivers also were courteous to each other.

Crowd Gives Big Farewell To Gov. Landon

Presidential Candidate Leaves City At Ten O'clock This Morning

PLANNED VISIT AT CONNEAUTVILLE

Speaks Tonight At Chautauqua Lake—At Buffalo Wednesday

Waving his straw hat high in the air and wearing the smile that has won him over to his audiences, Governor Alf M. Landon bid farewell to New Castle from the observation platform of his private car at the rear of his Pennsylvania railroad special train at 10:01 o'clock this morning.

"Good bye! Good bye! Good bye!" the presidential nominee called out as the train, bound for Conneautville, Pa., started smoothly on its journey.

Had A Fine Time Here
"I had a fine time in New Castle," he called out loudly as his car neared the end of the station platform, crowded by hundreds who turned out to wish him well.

Cheers and applause rang out as the governor kept up the waving and the scores that lined the West Washington street bridge over the Pennsylvania tracks also shouted "so long!" and got a hearty wave as an answer.

For Governor Landon the New Castle week end was just what he said it was—a "fine time."

Expresses Sentiment
Earlier, in the privacy of his luxurious railroad car, Mr. Landon had told Mayor Charles E. McGrath that he was satisfied in every way with his visit to New Castle and that hospitality here was abundant.

Mayor McGrath, Republican county chairman, accompanied the Republican standard bearer to the depot and boarded the train for a short while.

The train was ready to leave at 9:30, the time the governor arrived, (Continued On Page Two)

Jesse Owens Back From Olympics

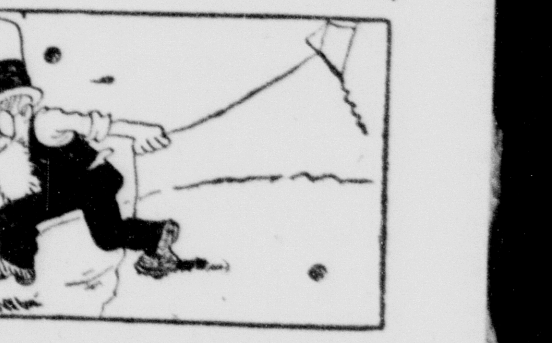

Arrives At New York After Record Breaking Performance In Germany

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Jesse Owens hero of the 1936 Olympic games, came home today in triumph aboard another record breaker—the S. S. Queen Mary.

The quiet 22-year-old negro, a senior at Ohio State University, took his welcome in stride with a happy grin, kissed his wife and mother, shook hands with his father and exclaimed:

"Boy, I'm glad to be home." He was unworried by his suspension from the amateur athletic union and indefinite on his plans to turn professional. Completely at ease, he refused to criticize either Chancellor Hitler or Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U.

The crowd is gone and the noise is done and the visit is over and through but gosh it was fun while it lasted here, there was plenty of work to do, but plenty of fun with the different folks and they said they enjoyed it a lot, in spite of the fact that whole week was sticky and humid and hot. But the guests are gone and so has Alf, to other spots far away, he'll be just as willing to welcome him, its not, ninety three today.

PETERSON IS MINNESOTA HEAD

Takes Oath As New Governor

Succeeds To Post As Result Of Death Of Governor Floyd B. Olson

STATE POLITICS BADLY MUDDLED

(International News Service)
ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 24.—Minnesota politics were in a jumble today as the state mourned the death of its governor, Floyd B. Olson.

Gov. Olson died Saturday night at Rochester, Minn., after a lingering illness.

State funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon from the Minneapolis municipal auditorium. Until then the body will lie in state in the rotunda of the state capitol here, with a military guard of honor in constant attendance.

New Executive Takes Oath.
Hjalmar Peterson, Askov newspaper publisher, lieutenant governor under Olson, was sworn in as the state's chief executive today.

Although Olson had been ill for months, his own confidence in his recovery was communicated to his farmer-labor party lieutenants and as a result they were not prepared to carry on.

Olson, his party's candidate for United States senator in the November elections, ruled the farmer-labor party almost single handed.

The party's state central committee will choose a successor to Olson on the November ballot some time this week, a task which may involve considerable juggling of the state and national ticket.

Likewise unsettled is the role Minnesota will play in President Roosevelt's campaign for re-election. Shortly before his death, Olson pledged his personal support to President Roosevelt, but the stand of the party which he led to dominance was unannounced. President Roosevelt was to have visited Gov. Olson at Rochester, Wednesday.

Wimodausis and they did their work well. One might have thought it was an ordinary, so easily and smoothly did the work of serving the crowd go off. It was another example of the adequacy of the facilities of the Cathedral.

Dr. John J. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of New Castle, delivered the invocation and Sam Lewis directed a few pep singing numbers.

After the dinner Captain Roger W. Rowland, county chairman of the Republican party, took charge of the program and introduced Attorney Thomas W. Dickey as toastmaster. The speeches were brief and informal. Nobody was permitted to speak over three minutes, the toastmaster ordered. This included Governor Landon, whose remarks were the briefest of any of the speakers. He confined himself to congratulating the committee for its efficiency in detail and to the city for its hearty welcome. Others who spoke were M. Harvey Taylor, state chairman of the Republican party; Mrs. Worthington Scranston of Scranton, Pa.; State Senator G. Mason O'Leary, ex-Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas, Miss S. M. R. O'Hara of Wilkes-Barre, ex-Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Frank L. Pinola, Republican candidate for state treasurer, E. Arthur Sweeney, candidate for state auditor-general. On behalf of the city Mayor Charles E. McGrath welcomed the distinguished guests. During the dinner an orchestra played and one of the numbers was composed by B. J. Biondi, "On With Landon".

Each of the speeches carried confidence that Landon would win. "He is fair to labor and his policies in the labor question meet with my approval," said ex-Governor Gifford Pinchot. "He knows government and he knows economy," said ex-Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas. "He is a man who will rid us of the four horsemen of the new deal," said Miss S. M. R. O'Hara.

All of the speeches were short but all of them carried the same high note of confidence. They believe Landon will win in November and they said so.

Governor Landon was genuinely pleased with the reception given him both at the dinner and during his stay in New Castle. At 5:30 there was a press conference in The Castleton hotel which was attended by the press representatives covering the Landon trip and local guests.

Sunday evening there was another press conference at the home of Mr. and Mrs. DeGrimm Renfrew on East street at which Governor Landon discussed informally the events of the week-end.

Sunday afternoon Governor Landon was free of the press men. After attending services in the First M. E. church of West Middlesex, he asked that his trip be not covered by the newspapers inasmuch as he was merely paying some personal calls. The newspaper men respected his wishes.

During the press conference in the evening Governor Landon expressed his pleasure at everything that had been done for him, and before leaving today Robert M. Othwaite, representative of the national committee, was enthusiastic over the successful manner in which the arrangements had been carried out.

To Visit In Ripley
The nominee faced a busy day. His schedule called for stops of his train in Sharon, Greenville, Conneautville, and Erie, Pa. He will leave his special train at Ripley, N. Y., at 11:25 p. m. to spend the afternoon and night in the home of former representatives Charles Hamilton, an old friend, the rest of his party will go on to Westfield, N. Y., to rejoin him later in Chautauque.

Early tomorrow Governor Landon will proceed to Buffalo to attend a luncheon and devote two days to conference with Republican leaders from the Empire State. After his speech there Wednesday night, he will return to Topeka, making a series of rear-end appearances in Illinois and Missouri Thursday.

On his return to Topeka, the governor will plan his second campaign trip now scheduled for the mid-west and central northwest. It will follow his attendance on President Roosevelt's drought relief conference at Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 1.

Receives Congratulations Messages
The governor meanwhile received a flood of congratulatory telegrams on his first major speech at West Middlesex, Pa., Saturday. In it, he declared one of his first objectives in the white house would be the elimination of monopoly and special privilege. He challenged President Roosevelt to fight out the presidential election on the issue of maintaining the time-honored American system of government and declared voters faced a choice between the "pig in the poke politics" of the Roosevelt administration, and the American institutions under which "we have enjoyed more liberty and attained a higher standard of living than any other people in the world."

He spoke to at least 100,000 people at his birthplace. State police estimated the crowd at 110,000 and announced they had checked 27,292 automobiles into parking grounds adjoining the country club where he spoke.

Spent Active Week-End
The nominee spent an active week-end visiting old friends and scenes of his childhood. He attended Sunday service at the church, where his grandfather, the late Rev. William Mossman, preached. He even took a nap in the very room of the parsonage in which he was born and cradled as a youth.

He inspected church records and found the notation of his own baptism on Christmas day, 1889, when he was two years old. He smilingly confessed he had no recollection of the event.

Gov. Landon also lunched with a group of women, who helped to shape his youth. They were Mrs. Mary Reed, "Auntie" Baird, his babyhood nurse, Mrs. Harry White, who cared for him at the age of two, Mrs. Wash Dunham, who gave him chicken pot pie as a boy, Mrs. Mary Jennings, who made his baby clothes and Mrs. Emma Lininger, who called him her "favorite nephew." All were over 70 years old.

In his way to Chautauque and Buffalo, Landon will visit other scenes of his childhood in Conneautville, Pa. He will spend thirty minutes in the town around noon. His father was born there, his grandfather is buried there and he attended school there. The church is still in service where his grandfather occupied the pulpit, and Landon listened to sermons as a youth.

The sermon was one of evangelism and brought commendation from a number of veteran newspaper men seated in the audience. Their reaction seemed to be that Rev. Shilling had acquitted himself with dignity and credit in a spot that one less wise might have used for personal aggrandizement.

In addition to Dr. Harsha, Rev. W. J. Holmes of the Presbyterian church was on the platform and read the scripture lesson. Flanking the altar for the services were baskets of flame colored gladioli, while downstairs and on the stairway were baskets of sunflowers.

As Governor Landon left the building a crowd of four or five hundred gave him an ovation. He responded to it, stepped into a waiting automobile and was whisked over to the home of Mrs. A. A. Young where he was scheduled to eat dinner.

but it was held until 10:01 in order that the established schedule might be kept. Members of the special train party and others were taking breakfast in the dining car as the crowds swarmed about the depot.

Dressed in a white Palm Beach suit, Governor Landon, appearing fresh from a good night's sleep, walked briskly from his automobile to the train. Mighty cheers went up and to the cheers he responded with friendly waves.

Changes Clothes
Once inside his train, Mr. Landon changed suits for the day. When he stepped out on the observation platform to say farewell he was wearing a natty gray suit.

When his car had passed under the West Washington street bridge, the governor stepped to the opposite side of his car and again waved his hat to another crowd that had gathered on that side of the tracks to cheer him.

The special train was heading towards western New York, where tonight he speaks at Chautauque, N. Y., and on Wednesday night at Buffalo.

"There wasn't a hitch in any of the plans—everything went off splendidly," was the way a Pennsylvania operating official described the governor's train movements over the week end. Over Sunday the special was sidetracked in the yards back of the Erie & Ashtabula division office building.

Part Of Bridge Closed
When the train had pulled out and the throng began milling out of the depot grounds a temporary jam arose at the West Washington street bridge over the Shenango. Because of repair work, one side of the span had been closed and the crowd and vehicles were forced to travel the one open side of the bridge.

Enroute to Conneautville, where Landon will stop 30 minutes, the special will make brief stops at Sharon and Greenville. The train is due at Erie at 12:50 and there it will be taken over by the New York Central railroad. It will proceed towards Chautauque from Erie.

Conneautville Delegation On Train
At Chautauque tonight he discussed public education and religious liberty and at Buffalo on Wednesday night he will speak on federal finances.

The high spot of the governor's travels today was his visit to Conneautville, where his ancestors are buried and where he attended school as a boy. Claude P. Corey headed a delegation from the town that boarded the train in New Castle. Corey said Landon would visit the family burial ground, the home where his grandfather, Manuel Landon, was born, and the school he attended. The nominee will make a short address to the Landon clubs of the county.

Use 80,000 Pounds Of Ice In Keeping Landon's Train Cool

That Quantity Used In Special
Train While Here Over
Week End

Over 80,000 pounds of ice was required over the week end to keep Governor Landon's special train comfortably cool, it was learned today.

On a siding in the rear of the Erie and Ashtabula division office the train was parked while Governor Landon remained here.

A huge ice order was placed to supply the cooling system on the train which maintained a comfortable temperature for the newspapermen and others who made it their headquarters.

Had Governor Landon been able to stay inside of it, he wouldn't have noticed the oppressive heat of Sunday afternoon.

Alongside the special cars were parked three freight cars carrying portable power plants which served the train. In charge were Pennsylvania railroad experts who saw to it that the equipment was at its best. There were special telephone connections for the press.

All day Sunday groups approached the train and viewed the private car of Governor Landon.

Courteous Pennsylvania railroad police were about to keep a general watch over the train.

McCready Asked To Sign Pledge

Harrison "Playboy" McCready
And Wife Spend Night In Pittsburgh Jail

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—The Harrison "Playboy" McCready today were advised to "take the pledge."

Discharged in police court on charges of "drinking while intoxicated," McCready was asked by the magistrate:

"Why don't you go before a minister and take the pledge; quit drinking?"

McCready answered:
"I won't promise, but I'll think it over."

Mrs. (Marie Patricia Silvertooth) McCready corroborated rumors she intended leaving her spendthrift spouse, but:

"If the folks hear I have been in jail I don't think I'll be able to go home."

The McCreadys were arrested while allegedly "whooping it up" in a party in their rooms. A friend, W. J. Musick, was also arrested, and likewise released. All three spent the night in the coop.

Typewriter Plant Will Be Moved As Result Of Strike

(International News Service)
CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 24.—As the climax to three months of labor trouble, the Remington-Rand Company today announced its plant in Norwood, a suburb, will be closed and its operations shifted to other company plants in the east.

Floyd Williams, company attorney, made the formal announcement of the closing plans in the midst of a hearing in common pleas court on an application by the company for a permanent injunction against picketing. Judge Nelson Schawb postponed the hearing for 30 days after Williams had made his announcement.

The closing of the plant, which normally employs 1,700, will be virtually complete, according to Williams. He said there is "a very slight chance" that operations will continue at the plant's adding machine unit, in which 100 are employed.

UNIQUE DISPLAY AT FLOWER SHOW

A unique feature of the second annual flower show to be held in Epworth M. E. church by the East Side Garden club, Friday evening of this week, will be a display of annuals which have been carefully cultured by the members themselves throughout the spring and summer.

Early last February at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Fred Remley, the members exchanged slips of paper on which were initials of each other's last names. The women were to grow flowers the first letter of which the initial on her paper designated, and then show that particular kind at the fall display.

The idea was distinctly original and has resulted in success which the public may judge for itself at the show Friday night.

TUESDAY NIGHT

125,000 cattle. If you open a box of corn beef remember that it once grazed on peaceful Texas plains.

"Texas, kingdom of cotton, produces 37 per cent of the United States crop. Your shirt, perhaps, was only last year beautiful white flowers, caressed by breezes from the Gulf of Mexico, gathered by colored women with violet lips who sang jazz fugues."

Millions of Texans have never seen cotton pickers with violet lips singing jazz, especially "jazz fugues."

To resume:
And oil! Texas, if France had kept it would have supplied power to run all automobiles, all gasoline and oil-burning machinery in France. Think of gigantic Spindletop spouting its 100,000 barrels of wasted oil 300 feet into the air every day, for nine days, before it could be controlled; and in 1930 a vagabond dug in East Texas the greatest oil well in the world named Dad, producing 100,000 barrels of oil a day. The black gold of Texas brings in twelve and a half billion francs a year! ($835,000,000.)

"And that is not all. Texas has the latest sulphur mines in the world. Texas orchards and vegetable gardens in the Rio Grande valley possess a disconcerting fertility. Texas sheep produce the finest wool of the world and millions of cutlets. Amarillo possesses the biggest natural reservoir of helium gas for dirigibles in the world. Texas roses are celebrated throughout America and florists make fortunes."

"Port Arkansas is the greatest shipping port for crude oil in the world. Beaumont possesses the greatest oil refinery in the world. The little town of Uvalde is the greatest honey-producing center in the world."

Mr. Pop Eye will like this "Carizzo possesses the greatest spinach plantation in the world; four thousand acres entirely devoted to this modest vegetable."

Monsieur Lamure, later, will tell you the rest of what I know about Texas; he begs his readers not to doubt his word.

"I supplicate you, do not mock me. Do not consider me a liar or a joker. These Gargantuan figures are authentic, duly registered with the Minister of Agriculture at Washington."

The "Gargantuan" not all may know it, is taken from Rabelais' famous book of which Gargantuan, the principal character, has become a by-word to designate a man of insatiable appetites.

M. Lamure saying that Texas, while "bigger than all France," has only 6,000,000 inhabitants. "It is because Texas," he said, "has less than 100 years ago to stop fighting and begin peaceful, profitable work. "And," says he, "I am not sure that Texans do not regret those old days when the fighting life was beautiful and short."

Readers of the San Antonio Light and other Texas newspapers that take this column will learn from Monsieur Lamure that "Texas was torn from Mexico and delivered to the United States by three men: Stephen Austin, a peddler who gave his name to a city, hoped to grow rich; found only glory; William Travis, former school teacher, who scandalized his family by marrying one of his scholars; finally, and greatest of all, Sam Houston, former governor of Tennessee, grand aristocrat, heavy drinker and a great battler before the Lord, who had come to Texas to forget his conjugal misadventures, his wife having left him a few weeks after the honeymoon."

"These three men, human derelicts, cast on the shores of Texas, for different reasons, moved by violent passions, contrary ambitions, and equal courage, gave Texas to the United States."

The next installment should be worth reading. M. Lamure does not mention the fact that, even today, the fighters of Mexico, having met those three Texans and others on the field of battle, tell you quite seriously that, while they could beat the rest of the United States easily enough, they are not sure that they could thrash Texas.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Many Publicity Men In New Deal

Large Number Work For Administration Who Don't Get Stuff
Into Newspapers

NOT LISTED AS PUBLICITY MEN

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—How many newspapermen there are doing publicity work for the New Deal can only be guessed at. Some time ago a list was compiled of approximately 250, operating in Washington. It was not complete, however. I noted omissions that I recognized personally. Others doubtless noted other omissions. Besides, additional newspapermen are doing governmental publicity at strategic points throughout the whole country—probably as many more of them as there are in the capital. It also is confusing that many publicity agents are on the federal payroll who do not appear officially as publicity agents. That is to say, assume that some New Deal bureau has no appropriation for a publicity staff but wants one; it hires the members of such a staff as statistical experts or what-not. But the staff's job is to attend to publicity.

MANAGEMENT POOR?

Far be it from me to decry this New Deal thirst for publicity.

It has been the means of providing jobs for a small army of newspapermen, who otherwise probably would have suffered acutely from the effects of the depression.

I may have my doubts that the campaign has been very well managed.

In pre-New Deal days I think the system was more efficient, with about 5 per cent of the more recent personnel.

Each department and more important commission has its public relations manager. A caller, asking him for information, promptly was put in touch with the proper source of it. The public relations man broke the ground and made an engagement for him. These boys were a convenience.

The present crowd prefers to provide its own propaganda. It puts it out by the bale. The mail service distributes some tons of it, franked, to all parts of the country daily. It amounts to a plethora. There is too much of it to read, and of course it is one-sided.

A DILEMMA
The point is, however, that the administration, having created this corps, cannot get rid of it. A newspaperman, once having been admitted into the innermost of the administration's secret workings, is sure to have found out a vast number of things that would not look, politically, overly well in print. And naturally, as a newspaperman, he simply is bursting to tell his story. He can't do it while still in Uncle Sam's service. But, fired, he can "spill" his yarn. The administration cannot afford to turn him loose and let him do it. It cannot afford to do it between now and next election day, anyway.

JAPAN IN LATIN AMERICA

The state department, planning for its coming Pan-American peace conference, is considerably embarrassed by the violent hostility of some of the Latin-American countries to Japan.

The Japanese have enticed to a surprising extent in west coast American republics—like Mexico, western littoral, and Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Chile. Yes, and to a degree on the east coast, in the Argentine and Brazil, where they have strong colonies.

Their game, it is complained, is to sell very cheap but showy little Japanese-made gadgets which put local retailers out of business. Incidentally, it is charged that North American houses have aggravated the difficulty. In other words, North American branches in Colombia or Ecuador, for example, have made a practice of inviting Japanese manufacturers (not those of their own country) to supply them.

The complication is of a difficult international nature to adjust.

AROUND CITY HALL

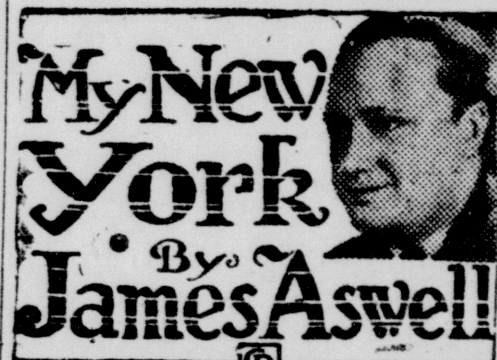

Governor Alf Landon having been here and gone, the city officials and employees now have returned to their normal duties. The governor was the guest of the city. Throughout Saturday police, firemen, soldiers and constables worked tirelessly to keep traffic moving.

One of the neatest traffic moves was the placing of no parking signs in the center of the various thoroughfares. However, there were some persons who parked their machines along the curbs.

J. Myron Rice, councilman, accompanied Mayor Charles E. McGrath and Councilmen J. D. Alexander, J. L. Fink and B. F. Butler to West Middlesex. The latter are Republicans and the former a Democrat. Rice went as an official of the city to honor a distinguished man of the country.

Outside vendors did not reap a harvest here. Instead local men who took out permits to sell Landon articles profited. Some vendors who were refused licenses came from as distant as New York city.

The News, By Mail, One Year, $5.00

Copyright, 1936, Central Press Association

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—This is the most moral city in the world—a thesis often hammered by your correspondent against optimistic cynics. Skulduggery here is almost wholly monopolized by politicians and even the gaudiest investigations of "Vice Queens" and "Dope Kings" fail to convince veteran observers that the town, in comparison with London, Paris or New Orleans, isn't immaculate.

The other evening an unregenerate newspaper colleague from the Deep South, vacationing in Manhattan, pulled at my sleeve and drawled: "Ah wish you'd take me to one of those big New York gambling palaces. Got a few dollars to lose, just for the experience."

There was nothing for it but to confess that I knew of no "big New York gambling palaces." He felt, I know, that I was either holding out on him or shamefully ignorant of the sinister byways of the city I'm supposed to examine minutely and without prejudice, day after day.

I do know the location of a night club, which runs in the summertime and which is rumored to be equipped with a couple of dice tables in the cellar. But the last I heard of the gambling activities there, the management was waiting for "the word" from "higher ups" and so far as I know they are still waiting. Of course, I don't gamble myself. Beyond an occasional pull at a slot machine lever and virtuous New York has, really and truly, obliterated these one-armed bandits because gambling is a career, like vegetarianism or hating Wall Street, and I haven't the necessary time.

Use Of Sun Glasses At Night Is Said To Be Dangerous

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—The use of sun glasses to ward off glare of approaching vehicles at night is highly dangerous, according to Frank E. Ballantyne, general manager of the Automobile club of Pennsylvania. The report is on the basis of a recent national survey with special glare-testing equipment.

It was found, Ballantyne said, "that although sun glasses make it possible for the driver to stand a higher degree of glare, nevertheless they substantially reduce his ability to distinguish objects against the glare."

Recently "Thirty-Three West Thirty-Third Street" was sold to an antique furniture dealer. This was the Bronze Door of the early Nineteen-Hundreds, an address of lush and sinister charm. The door was a replica of one ornamenting the villa of a Venetian nobleman and inside a sweep of marble stairs led up to the gaming rooms. The opening was in the nature of a society levee and The Bronze Door was Frank J. Farrell's bid for some of the mizumama flowing into the coffers of the immortal Canfield.

Paraphrasing, it has always seemed to me that Canfield, New York's most famed gambler, was one of the unluckiest men that ever lived. His downfall and final, unhappy days may be attributed to an absurd contempt.

One of the young Vanderbilts of the time—this was near the turn of the century—went gambling one night and lost a huge sum of money. He suspected money business and went to District Attorney Jerome with his story. Jerome promptly pounced upon Canfield and from that time on the gambler had lean days. Yet Vanderbilt had not been in Canfield's at all, but in another house up the street—there were scores of them then—and in the heat of telling all to the law he got his addresses mixed!

Crowd At Station To Greet Landon

Wait At Pennsy Station For Hour Until Governor
Leaves Train

CONFERENCES ARE HELD ON TRAIN

Although a hot August sun beat down, the scores that welcomed Governor Landon back to New Castle from West Middlesex late Saturday afternoon waited over an hour at the Pennsylvania railroad depot to see the Republican presidential nominee leave the train.

And that in itself was a tribute to the man who may occupy the White House.

Arriving here around 4:30 o'clock, Governor Landon chose to rest in comfort in his air-conditioned car until the clock hands had passed 5:30. With him were former Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and former Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas and other Republican leaders.

Mr. Landon was to have been motored back from his birthplace, but at the last minute he chose to come by train.

So huge was the West Middlesex homecoming crowd that certain Republican leaders and Landon train correspondents were kept from catching the special before it started to New Castle. The stranded members were brought here by auto.

When the Landon train reached the West Side depot here, the throng about the station was just starting to arrive. When he de-trained there was a large crowd to greet him.

State police of Troop D at Butler, serving as the governor's personal escort while he is in Pennsylvania, were on hand to accompany him from the train to The Castleton. Secret service operatives were in charge of the transfer over town.

A sleek open automobile, with a uniform driver at the wheel, whisked the governor seated between Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Allen, into the business district. The car made a slow tour of the main streets before going to the hotel. On both running boards was a state policeman.

New Castle police formed the official escort.

After the governor left the train, railroad men proceeded to sidetrack the cars for their stay here over the week-end.

Back of the Erie & Ashtabula division office building special workmen had readied the yard siding and installed necessary telephone and power hook-ups for the train.

Pennsylvania railroad police brought here before Mr. Landon's train came, remained over Sunday and this morning to guard the train.

Roomer Is Jailed In Woman's Death

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 24—Michael Turk, 56, of Beechwood avenue, confessed slayer of Mrs. Rose Thornton, at whose home he was a roomer, Sunday was lodged in the city jail, pending arraignment before Alderman W. C. Applegate on a charge of murder. The charge will be preferred by Police Chief Charles B. Steger.

Mrs. Thornton was slashed to death with a butcher knife the night of August 13. According to his confession, Turk staged the fatal attack because "she tried to boss me." Immediately after the slaying, Turk used the same knife in a suicide attempt. Although he slashed his throat so badly that six stitches and 19 clamps were used by surgeons in closing the wound, he has recovered. He has been a patient at Buhl hospital since the night of the murder.

No authentic records are available of the origin of the office of poet-laureate of England. According to one historian, there was a King's poet during the reign of Henry III (1216-1272) who was paid 100 shillings a year.

ONLY SILVERTOWN TIRES GIVE YOU GOLDEN PLY BLOW-OUT PROTECTION

Betty: "That was a narrow escape! right, Bob, but you're not to blame."

Bob: "Of course I am. We had a blow-out, didn't we? And I've been warned time and again that I needed new, safe tires."

When someone cautions you about gambling on tires—when you're urged to replace tread-worn tires with a set of Goodrich Safety Silvertowns—heed the advice. Because you can't laugh off this fact—thousands are killed or injured every year when blow-outs throw cars out of control.

Today's speeds of 40—50—60 miles an hour generate terrific heat inside all tires. Unless this heat is resisted, rubber and fabric begin to separate. A blister forms and grows bigger and BIGGER. No one can tell when it will burst. That's the worst part of it—you get no warning until BANG! A blow-out.

In order to give motorists real blow-out protection, Goodrich engineers developed the Life-Saver Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist heat. By resisting internal tire heat, this Golden Ply keeps rubber and fabric from separating. It keeps blisters from forming. And when you prevent the blister, you prevent the high-speed blow-out.

Play safe. That blister—that blow-out in the making may be in one of your tires right now. Put Goodrich Golden Ply Silvertowns on your car. They actually cost much less than other super-quality tires.

FREE! A million more motorists pledged to safe driving in the Goodrich goal for 1936. Join the Silvertown Safety League and receive—free—a handsome emblem to protect you if your tail light fails. Come in today.

Rural Judge Gets Blanton's Seat

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 24—A rural county judge new to state and national politics, stood elected today as Congressman from the Seventeenth District of West Texas, unseating the veteran campaigner

Clyde L. Garrett of Eastland, long experienced in stumping the post-oak county but never before entered in a political contest more than county wide, wrested the Democratic nomination—tan tamount to election—from the fiery Blanton who had held the post for two decades with one brief interlude.

Scout Camp Ends Sunday, Girls Return

Ninety Girl Scouts Home
After Annual Two Weeks
At Camp Phillips

"CHRISTMAS PARTY" ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Ninety Girl Scouts, browned and healthy, are home after two weeks at Camp Phillips, the most successful period of camping, local scout authorities declare, that the New Castle organization has ever had.

This morning Miss Audrielle Lynch, camp director, left by motor for her home in Athens, Pa., after spending the night with Mrs. W. H. Hanger, of Wallace avenue, Girl Scout commissioners. All twenty counselors vacated the camp on Sunday at noon after making a final inventory of equipment and supplies.

Many of the Girl Scouts left the camp Saturday night and the remainder departed after breakfast Sunday morning. All had had a most delightful two weeks together. None had any serious attacks of homesickness and there were no accidents of any consequence. They earned a great many badges and swimming awards, a list of which is being prepared for publication.

A Christmas party on Saturday night proved to be a merry way of ending the camp program. The girls forgot the heat and the calendar and joined in the Christmas spirit, trading gifts that they had made in camp, singing carols around a brilliantly decorated Christmas tree, and greeting a jolly old Santa Claus who was really Emma Schuller. Emma wore regulation Santa Claus garb except for her whiskers which were made of Queen Anne lace (wild carrot). The whiskers seemed to "tick" everyone in the crowd, causing spasms of laughter.

Candy was distributed around and then all jumped into "sleds" and glided over to the "cathedral" where a fine dramatization of "The Spirit of Fire" was presented by some of the scouts and a quartet sang a number of special selections. Then milk, crackers, taps and to bed.

Several articles left at the camp may be secured by the owners at the home of Mrs. W. H. Hanger, 118 East Wallace avenue. They are, one dark blue sweater, one green plaid gingham dress and one gingham Girls having money coming to them from the canteen are to see their troop captains who will in turn contact Miss Irene Mitchell.

Governor Landon Appreciative Of Reception Here

Talks To Newspapersmen In Informal Reception In The Castleton

"I want to thank you boys for the way you have been treating me," Governor Alf M. Landon told three members of The News staff, at a reception in the Castleton, Saturday afternoon, following his address at West Middlesex.

At the reception for publishers and newspapermen, Governor Landon spoke briefly and related some of his boyhood experiences here. To a Greensburg publisher, the Republican presidential nominee recalled the excellent onion soup he used to eat there and remarked about the difficulty of getting over the hills on the Lincoln highway. After shaking hands with the host of publishers and writers, he walked over to a large table filled with foodstuffs, reached over for a small piece of pastry and a glass of iced tea and started eating over again, talking about "when he was a boy in this district."

"How does it feel to return here governor?" a New Castle Newsman asked.

"It feels great. When I looked out of the train and spotted the cat tails, I knew I was home," he said laughingly. His pleasant personality scored a hit with the crowd.

Upon meeting President F. L. Rentz, president of The News, Landon remarked:

"Two Dutchmen should call each other by their first names. Fred, don't you think?" Mr. Rentz and the governor spoke for several minutes, talking of by-gone days.

Making New Product At Radiator Plant

The new cast iron oil heating boiler recently introduced on the market by the National Radiator Corporation has received an enthusiastic reception by the heating trade and consumers as well, according to announcement by officials of the corporation. The new boiler is being manufactured at the Cascade Park plant of the corporation and is largely responsible for the recent step-up in the production schedule, it is understood.

The new boiler was designed by National's Research Department in Johnstown for the express purpose of meeting the demand in many parts of the country, especially in the New England states and along the Atlantic seaboard for oil heat boilers. The boiler was recently displayed at the Oil Burner Institute Annual Convention held in Detroit and the National Convention of Master Plumbers in Buffalo. It is reported the boiler was one of the outstanding pieces of equipment displayed at the conventions, and that a large volume of orders have been received for the boiler since these displays.

Features claimed for the boiler include controls to provide automatic heat as well as an all year around supply of domestic hot water for kitchen, bath, laundry, etc., without any extra equipment or auxiliary fuel being required. The boiler is built in six sizes to heat larger homes as well as smaller residences, garages, shops and other smaller types of commercial buildings. It is stated the boiler is of such design as to make it especially well adapted for use with air conditioning systems in which a great public interest has been manifest during the last several years.

The new boiler is known as the National 018 Series Oil Heating Boiler and is especially attractive in appearance—the jacket having been designed by Lurelle Guild, noted industrial designer. The jacket is finished in baked enamel. The front is of a brilliant red with vertical aluminum bands. The top and back are also finished in red, while the sides and base are black. The jacket completely encloses the oil burner and all controls which are required for automatic heating. The boiler thus enclosed appears as a complete unit without any projecting instruments and is especially well adapted for use in homes where basement game or recreation rooms are desired.

The officials of the corporation are said to be very enthusiastic about the reception of the new boiler since introduced on the market and it is understood that production of the boiler, to meet the demand already created, is more of a problem than that of selling.

The production of the new boiler will continue to be confined exclusively to the local plant, it is stated.

FINAL REPORT ON CANAL IS READY

he decides the project impractical or the route inadequate, the entire plan may be dropped without further ado.

No Funds Allotted As Yet

Should he approve it, however, then only congressional allotment of funds stands in the way of construction.

The proposed canal already has the approval of congress, but that approval is subject to the opinion of the U. S. army engineers. They hold the final word as to the feasibility of construction. In turn then, the engineers have reported favorably on the route from the mouth of the Beaver river, near Pittsburgh to a point near Struthers, O., in the Youngstown district.

In revealing that at last the report, long awaited in the river districts, was being submitted, Col. Covell refused to disclose the exact nature of the document, making it plain, however, that no recommendation was included. In this connection he said:

"Our report this time carried with it no recommendation as to the advisability of construction. It is a collection of data requested by our Washington office which they must have before acting finally on the proposed project. It has to do chiefly with the 'summit' or headwaters of the route, above Youngstown, Ohio."

Consider All Claims

Remarking that the report had taken considerable time to prepare for various reasons among which were the ramifications involved, Col. Covell added:

"We had to make doubly sure our research was entirely accurate in this particular instance because of the importance involved. We had to make sure we considered closely charges and claims made by both proponents and opponents of the project at the public hearing in Washington some months ago."

"For instance, we had to check on a claim by opponents that the earth construction of headwaters was not firm enough to hold canal water. Further, we had to check on harbor facilities at the mouth of the proposed route."

PRESIDENT WILL TOUR MID-WEST

promise on the administration's promise there would be no increase in taxation asked in the next congress, and also the further promise that steps would be taken to iron out inequities and injustices out of the present set of schedules.

One of the president's first callers this morning was to be under-secretary of state William Phillips, who was expected to come to the White House armed with latest information on the Spanish revolution, particularly insofar as it threatens to engulf Europe in another general war.

Consider Drought Situation

Later in the day, Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, Governor William I. Myer of the Farm Credit Administration, and Dr. W. W. Alexander of the resettlement administration, were due to report on development in the drought area toward which the president will head tomorrow night.

Before leaving Hyde Park the executive had delivered another strong indictment of warlike tendencies among the nations of Europe. Following closely on his address at Chataqua, N. Y., in which he outlined the administration's foreign policy, Mr. Roosevelt told a delegation from the people's mandate against war that:

1. Outside of the Americas, governments generally are ignoring the desire of 95 per cent of their populations for peace.
2. Certain nations are "putting the cart ahead of the horse" by using the need of improved economic conditions as an excuse for going to war, whereas better economic conditions so much more easily could be obtained by freer trade and internal development.

Leaves Tuesday Night

In the few hours President Roosevelt will be in Washington he expects to see a large number of federal officials with reports on many phases of government. John G. Winant, head of the social securities board, was one on his list for today, senator Schellenbach, (D) Washington, and Rep. Martin Dies, (D) Texas, also had known engagements.

Tomorrow night Mr. Roosevelt will swing west into the dust bowl to learn at first hand how his relief program is progressing, and to meet, among others, with his Republican presidential rival, Gov. Alfred M. Landon.

Queen Mary Makes New Ocean Record

Liner Breaks All Records For Atlantic Crossing In Latest Trip

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—With whistles screaming and pennants fluttering, the Queen Mary steamed into New York harbor today to a roaring reception, accorded her as the fastest liner afloat.

Smaller vessels that cluttered the harbor shrilled a mighty salute to the giant Cunard-White liner which bettered the Normandie's record for the trans-Atlantic run by 4 hours and 30 minutes.

Elated passengers thronged the liner's decks as she warped into her dock.

The elapsed time for Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose lightship was 4 days, 7 hours and 12 minutes. The Queen Mary's average speed was 30.01 knots compared with the Normandie's previous record of 29.64 knots.

The blue pennant, symbolical of the right to rule the seven seas, was thus wrested from the French boat which previously had snatched it from the lanyards of the Nazi ship, the Bremen.

Joseph Szukios, 18, of Northampton, was killed when his car overturned in a ditch near Danellsville, Berks county.

Deaths in the Philadelphia area included that of Eugene Meyers, 65, of Ridley Park, whose body was found in a ditch where it apparently had been left by a hit-run motorist. William T. C. McConnell, 75, was injured fatally when struck by a car while crossing a street.

Jersey Locusts

May Move Into Keystone State

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 24—A warning that unless adequate precaution is taken the army of locusts which has been laying siege to New Jersey oak trees may descend on Pennsylvania was issued here by James Rehn, curator of entomology at the Academy of Natural Sciences.

"This voracious oak-locust," said Rehn, "has been discovered in scattered sections of the pine barrens district in southern New Jersey. Unless the proper steps are taken this insect army will migrate into Pennsylvania and devastate huge areas of the state's oak forests."

"It attacks no other trees," Rehn asserted. "It consumes the oak leaves leaving only the ribs of the trees. The pest was first discovered in Texas 50 years ago and has gradually moved across the continent until reaching this section."

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

WHEN NOT TO PUNISH
From the scores of letters I receive, it is clear that most of my readers believe with me in the good old-fashioned spank. But I wonder whether I have made clear how rarely I would employ such punishment, or any punishment at all. My own children got very little punishment—no physical punishment after five, and little of any kind thereafter. But what they got was (with few exceptions due to our human frailties) in accordance with a very definite purpose and program we, their parents, had agreed upon.

Remember that punishment is pain, that the child tends to avoid what is painful. Therefore employ punishment only to prevent, to make the child avoid automatically and permanently what you are sure he always should avoid—not to get him to cooperate. Make pleasant the thing you wish the child to choose to do, and painful only what you want him to choose not to do.

Don'ts in Punishment.
Except for routines don't even command the little child, say, under four, to do anything. If you do and he does not obey you must punish. But if he has good stuff in him he might still refuse to pick up the block, for example, though you beat him brutally. On the other hand, one smacking smack would keep him from throwing the block again. Make just a few negative commands to your young child—just a few. Avoid positive commands. Employ infinite time and patience to get this child to cooperate—to accede to your request.

Never treat your request of him as a command. Never, therefore, try to force him to accede to this request. Then you won't have a stubborn child. You will have a child who cooperates, and whose companionship will be enjoyable.

Some don'ts in punishment: Don't punish the child in connection with his eating or elimination. Punish not for such matters as nail biting, thumb sucking, bed wetting. When in doubt punish not at all. What the child is punished for should be so obvious to him as to need no explanation.

When the punishment has ended close the matter forever and act thereafter as if nothing irregular had happened. Be liberal with approval and expression of affection when the child is doing right—and he is most of the time.

"Townsend Test" In California

Primary Tuesday Will Be First Real Test Of Townsend In Home State

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—The "Townsend test" comes tomorrow to the home state of the founder of the old age pension movement.

Followers of Dr. Francis E. Townsend, the Long Beach, Cal., physician who originated the $200-a-month pension plan, claim they hold the balance of power in tomorrow's primary election when ballots will be cast for 129 candidates seeking 20 seats in congress, in addition to many state contests.

The Townsends place their strength in California at 600,000 votes. State officials expect about 1,800,000 voters—approximately 60 per cent of the total registration—to go to the polls.

Dr. Townsend urges that "party lines be scrapped" and candidates endorsed by his organization be supported.

REBELS DESTROY 18 LOYALIST PLANES AT MADRID

Rebels Claim Big Victory

Believe Air Attack On Government Hangars Has Destroyed Air Force

EXPLOSIVES LAND ON MADRID PORTS

(Editor's Note: H. R. Knickerbocker, who flew from the northern Spanish front to southern Rebel headquarters at Seville in time to green insurgent air pilots returning from the first air raid over Madrid, is the first correspondent to reveal today the immense significance of the Rebels' successful blow. Destroying 18 Loyalist airplanes, he explains, the Insurgents have now eliminated the major obstacle to their infantry's progress towards the capital.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1936, by International News Service)
SOUTHERN SPANISH REBEL ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Seville (via Gibraltar), Aug. 24.—The backbone of Madrid's red air force was shattered today when a squadron of white war bombers dropped five monster bombs, weighing 500 pounds apiece, on the Getafe airdrome at Madrid and destroyed 18 of the reds' best machines.

Spain's civil war may be decided by this, the first serious attack by the white air force against the reds' air stronghold.

The red airplanes were lined up in front of their hangars in confident remembrance of the fact that until now there had been no menace from the white air fleet.

Like the soldiers of Washington's army who waited to see the whites of their enemies' eyes, the white army fliers saved their fire until they had enough airplanes to make the attack decisive.

Descend On Madrid.

With one blow, they descended on Madrid, and detonated on the airdrome one and one quarter tons of high explosives—enough to destroy everything in the area of a city block.

There is every likelihood that this will mean undisputed control of the air paths by the white forces, enabling them to push their infantry forward against Madrid without regard for red bombers, which heretofore checked their advance, but which are now smashed to powder on the home field.

Rivalling this news in importance is the white announcement of the destruction of the famed "phantom" red column, with 2,000 dead, at Gaudelupe.

The Foreign Legion and native Moroccans, operating from Caceres, surrounded and cut off Madrid's finest shock column, which had earned the name of "phantom" because it flitted with the speed and invisibility of a ghost from place to place.

The "phantom" column was dissolved in the breath of the rifles of Spain's best-trained troops, and the whites achieved the greatest infantry triumph of the war.

They are now one more important step nearer Madrid, while their airplanes have rendered that city's resistance considerably less formidable.

GOVERNOR LANDON AT HIS BIRTHPLACE, WEST MIDDLESEX, PA.

A crowd estimated at 50,000 came to the Tam-O-Shanter golf course, outside West Middlesex, Pa., to hear Governor Alfred M. Landon deliver speech on "Americanism" in the community where he was born.

Central Press cameraman obtains this view of part of mass of people listening to speech of Governor Alfred M. Landon at his birthplace, West Middlesex, Pa.

Henry L. Mencken Is Among Press Visitors

"If Governor Alf M. Landon wins the presidency it will be because of his character and not because of any ideas he may have on government."

This isn't the statement of a political leader, it's the statement of Henry L. Mencken, the "Sage of Baltimore," sometimes known as the American George Bernard Shaw. Mr. Mencken was in the party of press representatives with Governor Landon during his stay here.

"People are tired of ideas. They are against Roosevelt more than they are for Landon perhaps."

Mr. Mencken looks entirely unlike the chap you might have conjured up in your mind. Editor of the American Mercury for years, author of Notes on American Democracy, author of a score of biting satirical articles, one rather expects to find an aesthetic sort of fellow. He is nothing like that.

In appearance he reminds you of any profession but literature. A stocky built fellow, who likes to talk about farms and farmers, who admits to a taste for such plebeian things as sauerkraut, all in all a typical American.

It is only when Mencken begins to discuss literature, government, or the drama that the true Mencken comes out. Brilliant, satirical, humorous becomes the center of attention. With some writers words are bludgeons, with Mencken they are rapiers. A queer combination but a lovable combination.

Auto Accidents In State On Decline

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—More stringent enforcement of motor vehicle laws in Pennsylvania already has checked the upward trend of automobile accidents on the commonwealth's highways, the Keystone Automobile club reported.

Marked decline in accidents, deaths and injuries for the first seven months of 1936 as compared with the same period last year was noted by the club in a recent survey.

Figures given are: accidents, 28,327 in 1935—27,046 in 1936; deaths, 1,103 in 1935—1,049 in 1936; injuries, 27,007 in 1935—24,365 in 1936.

LOST VALUABLES RETURNED TO OWNER

That it pays to advertise in The News proved true in the case of Miss Murel Smith, of 401 Pearson street.

Miss Smith, a bookkeeper for the First National Bank of Lawrence County, left her purse in the counter of a downtown drug store, the other day, and when she returned to get it, it was missing.

After failing to locate it, she wisely inserted a "lost ad" in The News which proved fruitful. The purse, which contained a valuable pair of glasses and a sum of money, was promptly returned by an honest finder.

Short Detour On Edensburg Road

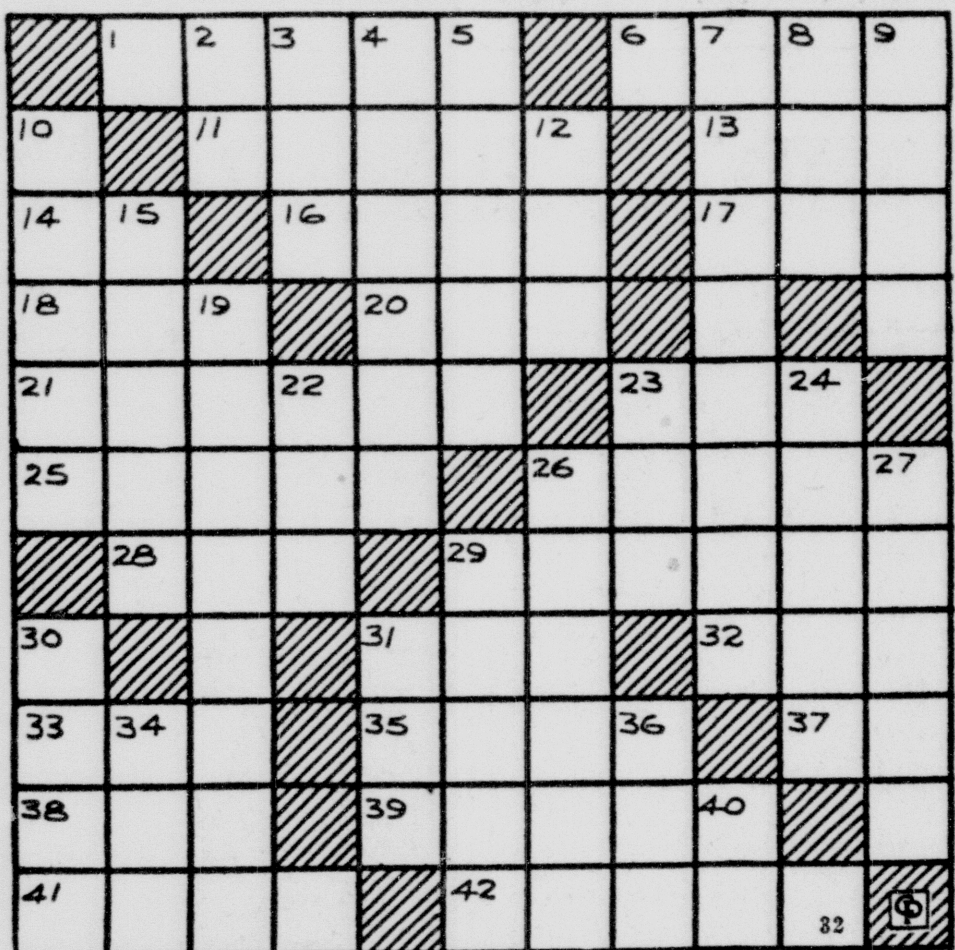

A short detour is in use on the New Castle-Edensburg road between Stump's corners and the old covered bridge. The portion of the road which was left unfinished when the Edensburg road was paved is now being paved and an approach being made for the viaduct on the New Castle side of the river.

Automobiles are now being routed up Sky Hill to the first road to the left which leads directly back into Edensburg just on the New Castle side of the old wooden bridge. The detour route is in perfect condition, it being hard surface Pinchot type.

This detour will not be removed until the viaduct has been completed due to the fact that it takes a great deal of traffic out of the zone in which the men are working and thereby lessens danger of accidents.

Quintuplets Are Wealthy

Already Have Fortune Estimated At $400,000 Says Philadelphia Man

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—The wealth of the famous Dionne quintuplets is placed at $400,000, according to Wilbur V. Hopkins, auditor of the Philadelphia board of education, who recently returned from a visit at Callander, Ontario.

Hopkins, who interviewed Dr. Alan Daeoe, quoted the quintuplets' physician as saying:
"I feel sorry for the children even with all their $400,000. You know they really don't get the paternal love that normal children do. I must play father and the nurses must play mother. We won't be able to take them out like other children and let them mingle and play. It's just impossible."
Hopkins said Dr. Daeoe visits the private hospital of the quintuplets twice a day spending from an hour and a half to two hours on each visit.

Visitors are permitted to view the children from a glass enclosed runway, which is so constructed that the little girls are unaware they are being watched. Outside the government grounds, on which the specially built hospital is located, the atmosphere is similar to a circus. Hot-dog stands, souvenir vendors, tents and at times hundreds of spectators form the background of the "big show".

Flood Control Funds Are Not As Yet Provided

Visit Of President To Johnstown Did Not Provide Funds For Work

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 24.—Some other way will have to be provided for flood control in the Johnstown region than that proposed by President Roosevelt during his recent visit, it appeared today after study was made of his statements, and of the federal laws involving flood control. Many people have misconstrued the flood control situation. The president has not allotted funds for construction of dams at Johnstown or elsewhere. He has no flood control funds. The $2,161,000 to be devoted to a survey of Johnstown's flood control situation—not construction—is from work relief funds. Work relief funds will run out by next July. Construction of dams would cost hundreds of millions. Congress reserves the right to approve or reject specific projects. The flood control act provides: "The government shall not be deemed to have entered upon any project until the project for the proposed work shall have been adopted by law." No authorization is given by the flood control act for construction of flood control works at or near Johnstown. Under the law, all lands and rights-of-way for flood control projects must be donated to the government and all maintenance costs must be assumed by local authorities. The act authorizes flood control works near Binghamton and Wilkes-Barre, but does not provide the money.

Football Men To Report Wednesday

To Issue Equipment And Give Medical Examination To All Candidates

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 24.—Football is in the air again and the mind of the local public has turned to the all-American game with an official announcement from the Ellwood City high school this morning.

Head Coach Bill Mitchell, who succeeded "Denny" Schill following his resignation to accept a coaching job at Shaw high school, Cleveland, O., and then resign again to become secretary of the local chamber of commerce, was in town last week and completed preliminary arrangements for the start of practice Wednesday.

Equipment will be given out and all candidates will undergo a medical examination Wednesday afternoon. Due to the heat one practice session a day is planned for the remainder of this week and then two sessions daily next week. The field is in excellent shape after receiving special attention all summer. The practice field has also been improved.

A survey of the available material shows a promising season for Ellwood City high. To greet Coach Mitchell next Wednesday will be seven lettermen, six of them members of last year's crack varsity. Another letterman, George Robuck, may yet be available for the squad. The lad suffered a broken leg last year and it is not known whether he will report this season. There is also some excellent material from the second and third teams of last year. It will be an experienced squad that will report to Coach Mitchell on next Wednesday.

Moratorium On Preaching Voted Down At Service

Members Of Ellwood Congregation Take Vote On Proposal Sunday

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 24.—At the regular services at the First Christian church yesterday morning members and friends were given an opportunity to vote on the question of a two year moratorium on preaching. And, in order that the vote taken might not be prejudiced in any way by preliminary remarks, a secret ballot was taken. Everyone present voted, even the children.

When the count was tabulated the majority was overwhelmingly against the two year moratorium. One little chap was overheard confiding to his mother that he had voted yes, remarking "He didn't want any preaching". No doubt the few negative votes could be accounted for as partly the vote of children expressing naturally their dislike to an adult service and to others who misunderstood the question.

Among those whose lives have been given on behalf of the Church and the Gospel there was a strong sentiment in favor of a return to what is frequently styled, "Old Time Preaching". And there is no doubt in the reporter's mind but that the sort of preaching that exalts the Christ is still needed, a point which Dr. Bell emphasized in his sermon last evening in the Trinity Lutheran church, using the well-worn but worn-well text of John 3:16.

FARMER'S BULL PAID HIS BILL FOR AEROPLANE

(International News Service) WASHINGTON—Business can be so complicated!

At least, that's the opinion of John K. Hinson, who sells airplanes here, for now he has a real live bull on his hands as the result of a recent deal. Frederick Schrom, a farmer, had a plane which he wished to trade in on a new job. He was prepared to pay $1,375 on the trade but learned he would need $100 more.

Schrom decided to proposition Hinson anyway. He told the airplane salesman that he had "something of value in place of the $100."

The next day Schrom approached the flying field leading the bull. When Hinson recovered, he kept the bull and it is now tied to a hangar with a "For Sale" sign tied on its horns.

Some men are polite and considerate and some have reached the point where they don't need other people.

Harrison Faces Test On Tuesday

Veteran Senator Pat Harrison Is Opposed by Former Governor Conner

(International News Service) JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 24.—With the political fate of the veteran senator, Pat Harrison, hanging in the balance, weary speakers took the stump today in the final day of the torrid senatorial campaign between Harrison and former Governor Bennett Conner.

A record turnout is expected at the polls tomorrow.

Issues have been largely crowded out of the campaign by personalities. However, Senator Harrison has branded Conner as a foe of the Roosevelt administration and Conner has pictured the veteran senator as using his powerful position of chairman of the senate finance committee to protect huge corporations.

They live in a rolling upland country, which has never been penetrated by white men until recently. The people, he said, are content with their stone age life, and refused to accept the metal tools and

SEE MUSIC AND HEAR LIGHT IN HOUSE OF MAGIC

(International News Service) AMHERST, Mass.—Seeing music and hearing light is not done with mirrors in this "House of Magic"—just an electric eye, a screen and a loudspeaker.

The "House of Magic" was presented at a four-day get-together of farmers and homemakers in Farm and Home Week at Massachusetts State College.

R. J. Green, electrical research expert, showed the farmers pale-colored light, wavering in intensity, the ocular manifestation of music played from a phonograph record, picked up by the electric eye and thrown on a screen.

The light rays, thrown on the machine "in reverse" produced sound.

FOUGHT ONE HOUR IN LONGEST DUEL

(International News Service) BUDAPEST.—The longest duel in the world was fought here recently by two society youngsters: Frederick Steuhmer, son of the Hungarian "candy-king" and Geza Kiss, a civil servant.

The duel developed from a private quarrel and took place at a fencing club. It lasted an hour without interruption. The two young men lunged at each other in 19 rounds. In the end both were so exhausted that they were unable to raise their swords and the seconds declared the duel ended. They parted friends. Both were injured on the head and chest.

KEEPS FARM CROP IN A BANK VAULT

(International News Service) MEDFORD, Ore.—Here is one farm crop so valuable it is kept in a bank vault.

Pansy seed. C. W. Harrold, Josephine county pansy grower, values his crop so highly he takes no chances with a farm shed or ordinary warehouse. And for good reason, because pansy seed is valued at from $90 to $500 per pound. An ounce contains from 22,000 to 24,000 seeds.

Harrold has "banked" 300 ounces and has about that amount yet to pick.

Giants May Win National Flag

Nothing Short Of Miracle Can Stop Their Pennant Charge

ONLY HALF GAME FROM FIRST PLACE

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—With the season only five weeks away from its finale, the thing New York baseball fans desire most and fans in the rest of the country desire least, namely, an all-metropolitan world's series has become almost a probability.

The Yankees are "in" so far as the American League is concerned, that's a foregone conclusion, while in the National League it is becoming increasingly evident that nothing short of a small miracle can prevent those amazing Giants from sneaking under the wire ahead of the Cardinals and Cubs. From a back row seat in the grandstand the chances of the Cubs and Cards to halt the Giants' pennant parade seem decidedly remote. The Terrymen are inspired and stopping an inspired team is a tough, tough job for anyone.

This morning the Giants are only a half game out of first place.

In taking two games from the Boston Bees yesterday the winning streak to 12 straight. The first game a pitching duel between Danny McFadden and Fred Fitzsimmons, went to the Giants by a 3-2 score when Travis Jackson came through with a timely single, driving in runs, in the eighth. Hal Schumacher hurled near shutout ball to take the nightcap, 6-1. The Bees' only run resulted from Gene Moore's ninth inning home run.

The Cardinals clung to their slim lead in the flag hunt by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-3, and then gaining a 6-6 tie in the second game of a doubleheader, halted by darkness in the tenth inning. In both contests the St. Louisans had to come from behind. Five runs in the eighth inning gave the Cards the first game while three runs in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings of the second game gave them their tie.

Reds Lose
The third place Cubs looked better than they have in weeks in defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 7-0 on a brilliant four-hit pitching performance by Larry French.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Phillies split a twin bill. The Dodgers took the first game 6-5, but dropped the nightcap, 5-3.

An astonishingly large crowd of 54,000 saw the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox split a doubleheader in the blue ribbon event of the American League. The Yankees won the first game, 5-3, thanks to Gehrig's fortieth homer. Di Maggio's twenty-second and good pitching by Ruffing. Boston took the second game, 6-3 getting an early lead off Bump Hadley and then pounding Pat Malone in the closing minutes. The Cleveland Indians sent Bob Feller, a 17 year old rookie to the mound against the St. Louis Browns and the young man proceeded to make history, striking out 15 and winning 4 to 1. The boy's strikeout feat was only one short of the modern American league record set by Rube Waddell in 1908.

The Washington Senators took a pair from the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-3 and 9-6, while the Chicago White Sox topped the Detroit Tigers 4-2.

One Thousand Golfers In Meet

British Walker Cup Team To Participate In Tourney

HECTOR THOMSON AMONG INVADERS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—A record-breaking field of more than 1,000 golfers will play qualifying rounds tomorrow for the national amateur championship at Garden City, N. Y., Sept. 14-19, and with that as a starter links warfare will blossom into international importance in a final big fling for this year in the east.

That army of club-swingers which will battle bunkers at 30 points about the nation tomorrow will be trying to crowd into a meager 219 places in the championship proper, with some of these already filled by exemptions.

While participants glean some solace from the absence of Lawson Little, winner in 1934 and 1935, who since has turned pro, to remove the outstanding menace since Jones was the man to beat, they find a new threat from another quarter—the British Walker cup team.

These stars arrived today for international conflict with American forces at Pine Valley, Clementon, N. J., Sept. 3-4, and, with this to help accentuate them, they will move in a body into the national amateur, exempt from treacherous qualifying round.

The visiting team includes young Hector Thomson, the British amateur champion, who already has been established among the favorites for our national crown, despite three decades of precedent during which every British attempt has been halted.

With Little out, they can't find anybody who looks better than the youthful Thomson, rated a sound golfer and fortunate enough to make his bid on a course constructed along typically British lines. Garden City, officials agree, is made to order for the foreign contingent.

Marcellas Are Victorious 8-6

In one of the most exciting games of the season, Marcellas baseball team scored an impressive 8-6 triumph over the Mohawks.

DeCaprio was outstanding, holding his opponents to six hits and fanning 7 men. DeCaprio clouted his 16th homer. Louie Santangelo also belted a home run.

More Than 600 Reported Slain In Bloody Spain

Rebels Report Killing Of 400 Loyalists In Defense Of Antequera

MANY REBELS ARE DESERTING

Rebels Launch Strong Drive To Try And Gain Entrance To Capital Of Spain

By THOMAS LOAYZA International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, Aug. 24.—More than 600 slain were added today to Spain's civil war toll as the tide of battle swung back and forth on the bleeding nation's many fronts.

In the greatest conflict of the far southern sector, rebels killed 400 loyalists in a successful defense of Antequera, near Malaga, according to insurgents' claims.

Two loyalist columns engaged in bitter hand-to-hand fighting at besieged Cordova after the city was bombed by loyalist artillery, and the rebels suffered heavy losses in killed and wounded.

A government column under Capt. Abineta arrived at the village of Loma, near Cordova, and predicted that the city would soon fall. Many of the rebels in Cordova have gone over to the loyalists, it was claimed.

Victories Reported. Government victories were reported in a series of engagements on the Saragossa-Huesca front in the northwest. With 155 rebel casualties and 34 government troops killed or wounded, loyalists have taken the "Hill of the Wolf," dominating rebel Saragossa, it was stated here.

Leftist militiamen occupied Belchite, also near Saragossa, another loyalist force is drawing near to Teruel, and rebel attacks at Almduevar and Vicien, south of Huesca, were repulsed, according to the government.

Conflicting Claims. Directly conflicting claims came from the Bay of Biscay city of Oviedo, long besieged by thousands of Asturian miners. At attempt by the miners to take the city from the rebels was beaten off, the insurgents said, while Madrid asserted that an attack on the miners from without, in an effort to lift the siege, failed.

The first bombardment of Madrid occurred yesterday, when a number of rebel airplanes dropped many small bombs on Getafe airdrome without, according to the government, doing any damage. They were, it was stated here, driven off by anti-aircraft guns and pursuit planes.

Strong Drive. While the rebels launched a strong drive towards Madrid from the Badajoz-Merida sector, hoping to approach the capital from the direction of Toledo, loyalists were understood to be trying a flanking movement, cutting the insurgents' communications with the north and attacking their main body from the rear.

Relentless fighting around San Sebastian and Irun continued, with the rebel cruiser Canaria bombarding the shore in an attempt to explode the government's oil stores there.

Coast Bombarded. Hendaye, France, Aug. 24.—Bombardments by government and rebel airplanes and warships today raked the coast of the Bay of Biscay, with 20 persons believed killed in loyalist Irun, and the rebel city of Oviedo in imminent peril of capture by the thousands of Asturian miners who have besieged it for a month.

Three rebel airplanes participated in the raid on Irun, where for more than a week a struggle has been going on for possession of the town. Nine bombs thundered into the heart of the town, and others blasted near the fort of St. Marcial, inflicting heavy damage and killing 30.

Colonel Is Slain. Official confirmation was received here today of the killing of Col. Ortiz Azezarra, commander of the rebels at Orazun, in the San Sebastian-Irun sector.

After government fliers dropped warning pamphlets over Oviedo, followed by a raid with 32 bombs hitting the city, Col. Aranda, commanding the rebel defenders of the city, radioed an urgent appeal to Gen. Emilio Mola, chief of the northern rebel army.

"If you don't send the help you promised," he said, "I'll be obliged to surrender."

The injured miner, John Smith, 35, of Old Forge, told mine company officials and rescue workers the shaft had caved in following the blast and that he believed the five missing miners were trapped behind, but not buried, in the fall.

Smith was rushed to Pittston hospital, severely burned about the body. The mine employs 150 men, all of whom were at work when the blast occurred, officials said.

West Middlesex Slowly Returns To Normal Days

Week End Visit Of Governor Landon Will Never Be Forgotten

(International News Service) WEST MIDDLESEX, Pa., Aug. 24.—Visibly regretful for the passing of its day of glory, little West Middlesex today resumed its normal peace and quietude after a week-end which will long be kept alive in the memories of its inhabitants.

A few flags drooping lazily in the sun, scattered remnants of other decorations clinging mournfully to trees, telephone poles, and porches and littered streets and lawns bore mute testimony to the fervor with which this little village paid homage to Gov. Alfred M. Landon, its native son.

For all the world resembling a circus ground after the "big show" has departed, the links of the nine-hole Tam O'Shanter golf course, where the Republican nominee talked, bespoke more eloquently than words the heartiness of Pennsylvania's welcome to its hero. Hammers echoing through the trees sang a sad refrain of a never-to-be-forgotten yesterday as workmen tore down the specially erected speakers' platform from which the Kansas governor pleaded for an American America.

Its "day in the sun" irretrievably gone, West Middlesex settled down to the task of insuring "Alf" the greatest majority ever polled here by any previous candidate for president.

Hollywood Agog Over Ship Docket

Reservations Made For Mr. And Mrs. Dick Powell On New York Steamer

(International News Service) HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24.—The film colony was won'ting today if the reservations aboard the Grace Line steamer leaving here September 19, taken out in the name of "Mr. and Mrs. Dick Powell" meant that one of its most popular couples was planning a honeymoon.

"It's not us," chorused Powell, the singing film star and Joan Blondell the number one heart interest in his life.

But seasoned Hollywood observers started adding two and two. Both Powell and Miss Blondell finish work on pictures next month. Her divorce from cameraman George Barnes becomes final September 4, and the two are seen constantly together.

"It is they, all right," friends concluded.

The reservation is on the lined Santa Paula, bound for New York through the canal.

Bar Association Opens Convention

More Than 3,000 Lawyers At American Bar Session In Boston

(International News Service) BOSTON, Aug. 24.—Reorganization of the American Bar Association, to give absent lawyers as much of a voice in its affairs as those who attend its annual convention, was recommended today by William L. Ransom, New York, president of the association, at the opening session of the convention.

More than 3,000 lawyers were present for the week long convention and the various group and committee meetings.

Under the plan proposed by President Ransom, a house of delegates numbering 160 would be established with representation apportioned from each of the states, 83 of them elected by local and state bar associations. The others would be officers, of the various bar associations.

The administrative body under the plan would be the board of governors comprised of the association officers, and one elected member from each federal judicial circuit. Delegates, policies and amendments to the association constitution could be voted on through the mail by the members.

Report Machinery Being Removed From Strike Plant

Strikers At Coraopolis May Be Out Of Employment Permanently

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—Pearing new outbursts of violence authorities today rushed reinforcements to the strike-closed plants of the Standard Steel Spring Company at Coraopolis.

About 15 hastily-deputed sheriffs were ordered to the plant shortly after rumors to the effect, the company planned to ship its machinery and office equipment to its Racine, Wis., plant caused feeling to run high among the 750 odd strikers, who are demanding recognition of Local 209 of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, and wage increases.

The sheriff's office reported it was their understanding maintenance men were loading equipment on freight cars on a siding within the plant yards, for shipment to Racine. The company refused to comment on the report.

According to Moon township authorities, strikers are disgruntled following receipt of notices in their final pay envelopes Saturday which read: "This is the last payment you will receive from this company."

Plumber's License Recommendation Not Acted Upon

Council met in the city hall today and held over a recommendation that a master plumber's license be granted to Paul Griffith at 528 West Washington street. Harold Dunlap, inspector of plumbing, informed solons the zoning board had issued sanction for a place of business at that address.

The inspector, however, said that it was against the zoning law but under the action of the board he could do nothing but recommend granting of the license.

Council was further informed that the zoning board would present council with an opinion regarding their sanction if solons so desired. The body said that if the zoning law prohibited a place of business in that residential section and a permit was granted by the board the best thing for the council to do would be to ask the board for an opinion.

A motion to this effect was asked. On recommendation of Inspector Dunlap and other members of the examining board for journeymen plumbers, council granted licenses to Kenneth White and Wilson Magee.

Landon, of Kansas, Republican nominee for the presidency.

In spite of the fact that there were a thousand cars in line, the trip to West Middlesex was made without mishap and those in the caravan conducted themselves in a creditable manner.
